

FAHS-BECK FUND FOR RESEARCH AND EXPERIMENTATION

A Donor-Advisory Fund Established with The New York Community Trust

DOCTORAL DISSERTATION GRANT PROGRAM

Application Guidelines

Areas of Funding:

Grants of up to $5,000 are available to help support dissertation expenses of doctoral students in the United States or Canada whose studies have the potential for adding significantly to knowledge about problems in the functioning or well being of children, adults, couples, families, or communities, or about interventions designed to prevent or alleviate such problems.

Review Process:

The Fund observes two funding cycles annually, the deadlines being April 15 and November 1.

All complete applications received by the deadline will be reviewed by an advisory committee composed of persons knowledgeable in research design and methodology and in the substantive areas supported by the Fund.

The committee considers four criteria in evaluating each proposal:

1. The compatibility of the proposed work with the areas of funding listed above.
2. The significance, impact, or potential payoff of the proposed work.
This includes the scope of the problem addressed (how many people are potentially affected?); salience or severity of the problem addressed (is this an issue of major importance in the lives of those affected?); and the certainty of the payoff (how likely is it that the study will have an impact on those affected by the problems addressed?).
3. The conceptual and technical merit of the proposed study.
This includes the clarity and soundness of the logic of the study and the appropriateness of the methodology. The Fund welcomes both quantitative and qualitative approaches, as long as the approach taken is appropriate to the goals of the study. The Fund particularly encourages experimental designs, where appropriate.
4. The likelihood of successful and timely completion of the proposed work. This is based on an assessment of the applicant's education, experience, achievements, and ability, and on the feasibility of the proposed study.

Applications are reviewed by the Fahs-Beck Fund's Donor Advisory Committee. Final funding decisions are made by The New York Community Trust. Sponsoring institutions and candidates will be notified of this final decision approximately two months after the application deadline. Grant checks for the approved amount will be sent to the sponsoring institution for disbursement according to the instructions detailed in the application.

It is not possible for the Fund to provide feedback on applications that are declined; nor may applications, once declined, be resubmitted to the Fund for consideration at a later time.

How to Apply:

The following items should be sent as one package, and must be received by the Fahs-Beck Fund by the deadline for the funding cycle in which review is requested, i.e. by May 1 or November 1. (Applications that are incomplete as of the deadline will not be considered in that funding cycle. They may be held over for consideration in the next funding cycle at the request of the applicant.)

1. The Application Form with checklist of required items completed.
2. A copy of the dissertation proposal as approved, including all research instruments. Proposals and all supporting documents must be in English in order to be accepted for review. Sponsoring institutions may be either in the United States or Canada, but must have documented tax-exempt status.
3. Ten (10) copies of a brief abstract (no more than 2 pages, double spaced) of the dissertation plan describing the purpose, methodology (including sampling plan and size), measurements to be used, plans for data analysis, and the study's relevance to one or more of the Fund's areas of interest. Each copy of the abstract must be accompanied by the Fahs-Beck Fund's cover sheet summarizing the design and scope of the project.
4. Evidence that the dissertation proposal has received official faculty approval.
5. Evidence that the dissertation proposal has received official approval from the IRB of the sponsoring institution.
6. Applicant's curriculum vitae.
7. A time schedule showing probable dates for completion of data collection, data analysis, and the dissertation itself.
8. A proposed budget (in U.S. dollars) specifying the total amount requested and listing the amounts for each individual item for which funding is requested. This budget should be accompanied by a brief budget narrative justifying the line items.

9. A letter of agreement from the applicant affirming that he/she will:
 - a. make all reasonable efforts to complete the dissertation on a timely basis;
 - b. send to the Fahs-Beck Fund a progress report and an interim accounting of expenditures from the Fund one year after the awarding of the grant;
 - c. submit a final financial report to the Fund on all expenditures from the grant award, and return any unused portion of the grant to the Fund; and
 - d. notify the Fund of the date of acceptance of the dissertation by the sponsoring institution and submit at that time an abstract of the final dissertation. The complete dissertation should not be sent to the Fund.

10. An indication of the proposed accounting and disbursing arrangements, the university administrative authority to be involved, and what amount, if any, will be charged for performing these services. This document should include a statement from this administrative authority indicating that the university will either: a) accept financial responsibility for the grant, including submitting a final financial statement to the Fund; or b) delegate this function to the applicant or another identified, tax-exempt institution.

11. A confidential letter from the applicant's primary faculty dissertation sponsor. It should not be shared with the applicant and should be placed in a sealed envelope with the faculty member's signature written over the seal of the envelope. The letter should include the faculty sponsor's judgment of the competence of the applicant to produce a quality product, the likelihood that the student will complete the dissertation in a timely manner, and the potential contribution of the dissertation.
